How the Service Between England and the Tuited States is Performed-An Economic Policy and Its Results-The Cunard and the Guion Steamships Compared.

LONDON, March 18, 1872. Messrs, Cunard, the steamship proprietors, have ten a long letter, published in to-day's issue of the Times, which is meriting attention from the fact that at present the mail service between the two countries is miserably performed. In the letter referred to it is contended that the existing arrangements are altogether madequate for the requirements of the time. In support of the argument it Almost immediately after the commencement of the Guion contract, and, subsequently, we were again and again appeared to by induential merchants, both at home and in America, to effect, it possible, some arrangement whereby the Wednesday mans could be more rapidly conveyed. The disparity in speed between the Cunard and the Guion lines produced the effect of letters being made up in parcels, and surreptitiously shipped on board the Cunard steamers, an irregularity which we did out, best to detect and prevent, and notified the facts to the Braish Post Office, assing for instructions. With the view of removing all cause for such a practice, and, in order to meet the strongly-expressed desires of our constituents, we tendered to the United States Postmaster General, as early as upon the 24th of May, 1870, an offer to carry the Wednesday mails at current rates, but it was declined. Having, however, ascertained that the Guion contract was to termanate on the sist of December, 1871, we, on the 18th of that month, again intimated to the United States Postmaster General that our vessels were at his disposal for transporting mails to the United Kingdom at such rates as ne could give us. That offer was rejected, and a renewal of the contract with the Guion company was recommended by the Senate committee on postal matters; but so willing were we to meet the solicitations of the mercantile community that our New York agent considered it right immediately to make the offer of free conveyance. This proposal was likewise rejected, and we understand that the Guion contract has been renewed for a term of years.

Prior to 1809 the whole arrangements for the transmission of mails between the Butted Kingdom and the United States, homeword as well as outward, were in the mands of the Eritish Post Office, but there existed an arrangement whereby the British Post Office received in return from the United States Post Office certain amounts of postage on the mails conveyed, and thus the Contract money paid to us was a disbursement on the operation on the ist of January, ises, upon which date likewise our present British contract commenced.

In argottating the present British contract we had at the time to take into account the altered circumstances under which, while the British Post Office required an outward service of the nughest emotenty, they could guarantee no finds or remuneration for a homeward service. The contract required fast and valuable vessels, whose heavy running expenses would be incurred on the return voyage, with or without mails, to pretty much the same extent as on the outward voyage; but it was, nevertheless, believed that we might retain the conveyance of homeward mails, and thus in some measure meet these expenses; and for some time we did obtain this benedit, but having ceased, as above mentioned, it became alterwards a question with us whether, at a sucrifice, we should offer to carry mail bags free. There could be no doubt that the quick and regular transmission of letters which would thus be secured would be of great importance in the interests of commerce, and we resolved to do all in our power to promote the object in view, more especially considering our connection with the conveyance of the British mails. The effect, however, of the Postal Convention has been that Great Britain has entirely lost the control of the homeward mails, which to this country are propably of greater importance than the outward mails; and the arrangement has alamately led to the retarding of the former mails by nearly two days. In conclusion, we begieve to add that the reduced rate of postal compensation allowed by the United States government cannot be regarded as an inducement in itself for any steamship company to mannam a service of high class vessels with the regularity and speed indispensation in saying that accounts and regular contaminace of a rate of speed higher than its required for the oruthary purposes of conveying passengers and merchandise, and that the superior class of transatiantic vossels, which can alone be depended up other than that of the United States, and that, therefore, the United states and that, therefore, the United states in getting any of these high-powered vessels to convey the homeward mails, with reasonable frequency and punctuality, are obtaining such an advantage at six cents an ounce because of the payments of other nations.

We have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servants, CUNARD, BURNS & MACIVER, Glasgow, March 15, 1872. per John Burns.

THE CATHOLIC TEMPERANCE UNION.

Another Address by Bishep Bayley on the Temperance Question-Call for a State Couvention at Paterson.

Having obtained the consent of the Right Rev. Sishop Bayley, the President of the New Jersey Union has summoned a State Conversion of the Cathonic Total Abstinence Societies at Paterson, when the Bishop will deliver a second address on the "Temperance Question," as will be seen by the

In support of the argument it is shown that the average passages made by the Dunard steamers during the year 1370 were made in line days, two hours and matters and during 1871 in me days, seven hours and attrivate minutes, while the Guion Company averaged ten days, eighteen hours and one of an animy-six minutes, while the Guion Company averaged ten days, eighteen hours and one days and individual to the state of the Carbon to the large that he carbon down and fifty-two minutes, and one day, freen hours and one and a nair minutes respectively.

It must be added that his loss of time was incurred between New York and Queenstown, to which must be added that his loss of time was included in the Frist through must be insected on the average to the late arrival of the steamer, the connection with the Frist through must bused on the average to the late arrival of the steamer, the connection with the Frist through must bused on the average to the loss of time to the London merchant involves two clear days. The average value of the direct trade boaveen Great Britain and New York for the many year has been estimated in round numbers at $220,00,000. A loss of interest of two days on that sum amounts to more than thirty thousand dollars, occasioned by the delay in the arrival of two days on that sum amounts to more than thirty thousand dollars, occasioned by the delay in the arrival of two days on that sum amounts to more than thirty thousand dollars, occasioned by the delay in the arrival of two days on the arrival of two days on the arrival of two days on that sum amounts to more than thirty thousand dollars, occasioned by the delay in the arrival of two days on the arrival of two days and addition to a representation of the state of the day the arrival of the other days. In the Court of Oyer and Terminer the March term will be continued, Judge Cardozo Garvin has time to read and digest the 500 pages of exceptions submitted in the case of Stokes, that the month. It is also expected that Carl Vogt, accused of the murder of Chevaher de Bianco, the Belgian nobleman, and stealing bonds and secarities, the property of the murdered man, will be tried on the charge of larceny, he having, as al-curities, the property of the murdered man, will be tried on the charge of larceny, he having, as alleged, brought the stolen bonds and securities to this country and sold and put some of them in circulation here. Vogi cannot be extraditioned, even after preliminary that here so the grave charge of murder under which he labors, on account of there being no extradition treaty between Beigtum and the United States.

SUPERIOR COURT.

There is a full calendar for April in all the benches of this Court. Judges Barlow, Sedgwick and Freedman will note the General Term, Judge Monell Part I Trial Term, and Judge Curus Part. Trial Term, Judge Mccunn will hold the special Term.

COURT OF COMMON PLRAS.

There will be no lack of business for the Judges in this Court during April. A case of special public interest is that of the suit brought by Mrs. Virginm C. Burke against the Gardiner's, to recover some fifty thousand dollars worth of stocks and securities alleged to have been taken from the possession of her father, Captain Alexander, who died at the nouse of the Gardiners some intre years ago. Judge Lowe will preside at Chambers and Judge Robisson at the Equity Ferm. Chief Justice Charles P. Daly will hold Fart One. Trial Term, and Judge C. F. Daly Part Two, Trial Term. There will be no session of the Gardiners some in the Marine Court.

Last month was a very busy one with the Judges of the Marine Court, and the April Term promises to keep them quite as basily employed. The General Term of the Court is growing in importance now that there is a full bench of Judges to decide on appeals, independent of the Judges who have had the cases appealed from.

The court accommodations, however, are entirely inadequate to the pressure of business, and the only wonder connected therewith is, that the Judges do not enter a protest against the State of things as they now exist.
